Here's what the Mexico Ledger says about our new foreman, Mr. Jas. Roy Key. "Jas. Roy Key, who has been foreman at this office for a number of years and is recognized as one of the best men of his line ever in this city, departed the first of the week for Keytesville where he has accepted a position. The Ledger regrets to see Mr. Key leave Mexico as does also a large and warm circle of friends. He will be supplanted in this office by William Armstrong, formerly of the Berry Enterprise, who is a printer of ability. The Ledger joins Mr. Key's friends in wishing him much success in his new home." This is a nice endorsement, but in addition, Mr. Key's management of the mechanical end of a printing office and his devotion to his employers interest are best of recommendations.

She came down to meet her uncle, John Long last Monday and convey him to his home near Echo. Miss Long is a namesake of ye editor and while in the city made the Courier a pleasant call. Old Charleston loomed mighty goon to her ann the jolly good time she had among old friends, made her reluctant to leave.

Roberta Parks poor little cat has been found. Poor, big eyed, wobbly, it is being fed cream and gravy by the bowl full to get it on its feet before Roberta returns. The simple effort at mewing shakes its weak frame like a palsy now, and its poor little tail has dragged on the ground until it has worn all the hair off ann looks like a cat rifle cleaner. But Roberta's papa has dropped everything to get this particular John Thomas Henry cat presentable before his daughter's return, not because he fears consequences, but because he loves cats, don't you see.

Obituary.

Mr. J. M. Kistler, of five miles south of Keytesville, departed this life August 8, of complicated diseases, one from which he had been a patient sufferer for several years, and it had been known for some time that death might be expected at any moment. The deceased was born near Salisbury, West Moreland county, Pa., Apr. 5, 1843. Married to Sidney Keeten of Lacombe, Mo., in 1878 to their union one child was born, J. W. Kistler of Rolla, Mo. His wife died in 1880 and Sept. 28, 1881 he was married to Anna Fetzer of Salem, Mo. Their union was blessed with eight children, six whom survive the father, viz: five boys, Carroll, Paul, Herbert, Homer, Henry and one girl, Esther.

In 1894 he was converted and became a member of Elm Ridge Baptist church. Everything was done to relieve him of his suffering, having the constant attention of skilled physicians, but he only looked forward to death as his only reliever and desired death long before it came as he was prepared for it. Besides his wife and children he leaves one brother, John Kistler, and relatives of Pittsburg, Pa.

The funeral services was conducted at Asbury Chapel, Wednesday afternoon by Rev. J. P. Rice of Salisbury and was laid to rest in the cemetery at that place. To the bereaved wife, sons and daughter the Courier extends condolence.
